

Muhammad Haziq B. Mohammad Khair

Self-taught web developer with a growing foundation in JavaScript, React, and modern web technologies. I've built several personal and freelance projects, focusing on creating responsive websites and simple full-stack applications. Currently learning more about backend development while working part-time at McDonald's. My past experience in retail and F&B has strengthened my teamwork, problem-solving, and leadership skills, which I bring into every project as I continue building my career in tech.
